The past week or ten day has been a test for wheat, particularly that part of the crop that was not planted until late in the fall. Monday a heavy rain fell on the frozen ground and with a drop in the temperature on Tuesday a large acreage of wheat in various sections is under ice.

Xenia is interested in an automobile factory, A. R. Marsh, of the American Motor Company, Brockton, Mass., being desirous of locating a plant in the county seat. It is proposed to place the capital at $200,000, of which $150,000 would be common stock and $50,000 in preferred stock. Marsh wants $100,000 of the common stock for machinery and experience he will put into the plant.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Bloomington, Ind., Weekly Courier in which we find an account of the gift of $10,000 by Mr. Thomas Faris to the cause of Foreign Missions. In view of the fact that most large benevolent gifts are for libraries, college endowments and hospitals, Mr. Faris will become widely known to christian people for his generous gift. Mr. Faris has been a tithing all his life and believes that tithing is the bidding rule of giving. Mrs. Faris is a sister of Mr. D. S. Ervin and Miss Jennie Ervin of this place.

Too Much Variety. "Bilgine is a genius," said the censorious friend, "but he won't stick to any one thing. He has too many different kinds of ability." "Yes, he's unfortunate. There's no use of being a genius if you're going to be heterogeneous."

Male Quartet, Messrs Ross, Siegler, McCorkell and Sterrett. Piano solo, Miss Helen Oglesbee. Reading, Mr. W. P. Harriman. Vocal Duet, Misses Lillias Ross and Charlotte Siegler. Ladies' Quartet, Misses Andrew, Ross, Beckley and Siegler. At the close of the musical program, Mr. Hayne gave a talk on "The Evolution of the Boy." Boys are increasing. They are the product of the country for our great men, lawyers, congressmen come from the country. Whittier's idea as expressed in "The Barefoot Boy" is a description of our real boy.

In the speed of this life the every day man is overlooked. One of the qualities of this every day man is honesty. He is a Good Samaritan and we will find all these things if we look on the bright side.

Miss Hazel Gardiner gave a reading which was well rendered and greatly appreciated. After the singing of "America" led by the double quartet, Prof. D. H. Barnes told us of "Our Country Schools and Their Needs." The purpose for which the school was established is to help the home. The School and Home must work together. One essential is the teacher. She must be a student, one loyal to those who appoint her and to her superintendent. See that the children are regular attendants at school and watch our boys and girls through the teachers' eyes. Three needs are: proper reading in the home, a supervisor and money for education, which comes back to you more than anything else. Push for what we need or we are going to get something we do not want and aim to make our rural schools as good if not better than the best of our cities and villages.

Mr. Baldwin's talk on "Evolution of the Farm" was excellent, showing the advancement in the tilling of the soil at present as compared to fifty years ago.

The Tuesday morning session was opened by Rev. J. S. D. McMichael with prayer. "Profit in the Dairy" was handled in a very clear manner by Mr. Baldwin. One startling statement was that one-third of the dairy cows do not pay for their feed.

One of the many interesting things on program was "Household Economy and Conveniences" by Miss Pearl Dorsey of Mountville, W. Va., who advocated the training of boys and girls to be home makers.

The afternoon session opened by to vocal selection by the ladies' quartet, Misses Vera Andrew Lillias Ross, Grace Beckley and Charlotte Siegler.

Miss Dorsey next spoke on "Simple meals, Well Cooked and Neatly Served." It is necessary for every cook to know the properties of food. Have everything well cooked and have the dining room attractive and pleasant as possible.

Mr. Hayne in his address on "The Improved Live Stock" left some valuable thoughts and interested his audience from the start. He advocated the feeding and breeding of pure bred stock but do not put all your faith in recorded stock. In some cases grade stock answers all ordinary purposes but pure bred stock removes the uncertainty of success. Mr. Wendall Foster spoke "The Briar Rose" followed by a vocal solo by Miss Lowmes. The last speaker was Mr. Baldwin who discussed the "Increasing Fertility of the Soil."

The following officers were chosen for next year: Clayton McMillan, president; Fred Dobbs, secretary and treasurer; Executive committee, Mr. Harry Tomlinson, Mr. Forrest Fields, Elder Corry and Collins Williamson. Next year's institute will be in younger hands, some of the older persons who have shared it's success in years past urging that young people be pressed into service. The institute was much better attended than last year and a very interesting program was prepared. We voice the sentiment of the community in extending thanks to the officers and executive committee for their efforts in making the institute a success. The officers especially thank the local talent for their part which created much local interest.

AN INVITATION

The Greene County Hardware Company, East Main street, Xenia, extends an invitation to all farmers in the county to call and inspect their line of hardware and farm implements, which is the largest and most complete of any in the county. Those in the market for farm machinery will do themselves an injustice in not getting our prices before giving an order. (Conwell's old stand.)

Ladies' Black Skirts, good quality, full width, former prices from $5.00 to $15.00. Sale price to clear out $2.98.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson

"The World in Cincinnati."

Thousands of people who have never had an opportunity to travel abroad and who may never see the countries of the Far East, will be able to get a very accurate conception of native life and scenery when they visit "The World in Cincinnati" exposition which will be held in the Queen City from March 9th to April 6th.

The section devoted to each country in the great Exposition will be enclosed by beautiful scenery painted in the best scenic studios of New York. Within the space shut in by painted hills of Japan, or jungles of India, will be found houses, shops, temples and shrines, a school, a hospital, a tea house and other structures identified with the life of the people. Visitors will see China, Korea, Palestine, and Africa, just as they are today. Men and women, young and old, of Cincinnati and its vicinity, called stewards, and dressed in the costume of each land, will populate the scenes, explaining to visitors the use and meaning of everything and tell of the efforts which are being made to extend the Christian civilization throughout the world, of which the stewards are temporary inhabitants.

So accurate are the copies of scenery and buildings and so true the impersonations and costumes of native life, that there will be a foreign atmosphere and visitors with even small imaginations, cannot fail to almost believe themselves thousands of miles away from home, in lands of strange landscapes, new architecture, and unfamiliar people.

Never before in Cincinnati have so many people been studying missions. The preparations for "The World in Cincinnati" Missionary Exposition have provided an incentive to mission study of the most unusual character. There have been organized, or are in process of organization, about 210 Training Classes of Stewards for the Exposition and up to January 15, 4800 text-books on missions had been sent out to the members of these classes from the office of "The World in Cincinnati."

In 208 churches of Cincinnati and vicinity, the Stewards have commenced their preparations for service in the Exposition, under the direction of Trainers who studied in normal classes in December. Many churches who enrolled a large number of stewards, have several classes. After spending eight weeks in thus preparing for service in the Exposition and then four weeks more in imparting to curious visitors the Missionary information which they have absorbed, it does not seem possible that any of the stewards will ever lack in interest for the work of Missions.

Representative plans are being made for the demonstration of native life and in the various scenes and sections of the Exposition. These demonstrations will show to visitors incidents of official and home life and will illustrate the native worship and the work of the Missionaries.

The enrollment of stewards for "The World in Cincinnati" Missionary Exposition will close January 15th, and by that date the number will considerably exceed the 5,000 called for.
